FAIR.—The annual Ghuntali fair was held on Friday last, on the Bombay Road, Tanna, in honor of a Hindu god. The whole Hindu community of Tanna and the surrounding towns as well as Mahomedans and others mustered in large numbers to pay their tribute at the temple. The temple was well lit with all kinds of buttees, &c., and the illuminations roundabout were very bright. There were fire-works also, which continued till about 2 o'clock in the morning. Several Europeans were also present, among whom were noticed Mr. C. E. G. Crawford, the District Judge, the Forest Officer, &c.

DEATH FROM HYDROPHOBIA.—An inquest was held yesterday, by Dr. Blaney, the Coroner, at Parel, touching the death of Bai Soonabai, wife of Mr. Merwanjee Framji Langdana, aged 50. On the 28th of November last a Newfondland dog, belonging to the deceased's brother-in-law, ran away from the house. The deceased's servant caught the dog the next day and brought it again to his master's house. The deceased was asked to wash the dog, and while she was doing so the brute turned upon her and bit her on the right hand. The deceased's nephew Nowroji Framjee interfered, when the animal growing fierce rushed at him and bit him as well. The deceased lady then went to Nowsari, but hearing that her nephew had died of hydrophobia on the 8th of January she came back to Bombay. Her wound was then healed up, but about three or four days ago she suddenly became ill and showed symptoms of hydrophobia. She grew worse, and died on Saturday. The jury returned a verdict of death from hydrophobia.

CHILDREN'S ENTERTAINMENT AT THE TOWN HALL.—A highly interesting entertainment was given by the younger children of the Cathedral School, at the Town Hall, on Saturday evening, before a very large assembly of their parents and friends interested in their welfare. The piece performed was the "Queen Reval," and it was surprising to witness the perfect manner in which the children recited their parts and maintained excellent time and harmony in the nursery songs and choruses, which delighted the audience and drew forth their cordial applause. The bright and charming costumes of the children, together with the pretty staging, imparted an enchanting appearance to the merry group, whose happy expressions betokened their confidence in their lines. The declamation was firm and distinct, and redounded to the credit of Miss Franklin, the infant school-mistress, who is to be warmly congratulated for her painstaking and her success in teaching the little ones their several parts. Miss Maggie Cole, as Queen, and the Misses Louise Ruddell, Grace McDermott, Lucy Wilbond, and Olive Bowack, her Maids-of-Honour, formed the central attraction in their pretty costumes, and presented a charming group. Miss Bennett presided at the piano, and her assistance contributed materially to the success of the entertainment, which won the heartiest acknowledgments of the audience.

FURIOUS DRIVING ON THE TARDEO ROAD.—At the Girgaum Police Court, on Saturday, a Hindu, named Bhica, a coachman, was charged before Mr. W. R. Hamilton, Second Presidency Magistrate, with driving on the 1st instant, along Tardeo Road, in such a rash and negligent way as to endanger human life. It will be remembered that on the evening of Thursday, the 1st instant, Mr. Allan F. Turner, solicitor, was returning home from Byculla Church in his victoria, with his wife, child, and nurse, and when the victoria had almost reached the Mahlaxmi end of Tardeo, a shigram, driven by the accused, came dashing up the road from an opposite direction and ran into the carriage. Mrs. Turner was thrown out and narrowly escaped, being trampled on by the horse, while the coachman was also knocked off his seat and, but for one of the shafts of the shigram having gone through the splash-board and become fixed in the lower part of the coach-box, the horse would have probably taken fright and bolted and the result would, in all probability, have been most serious. The accused in his defence stated that as he was driving the horse, which had not been used for two days, got frightened at some noises and bolted. He could not control the horse and was unable to prevent the shigram running into the victoria. The Magistrate sentenced the accused to pay a fine of Rs. 25, with the alternative of 25 days' imprisonment, with hard labour.

A NAIKAN'S CLAIM FOR HER CHILDREN. At the Girgaum Police Court, on Saturday, a Hindu naikin, named Gujerabai, charged Hajee Peer Mahomed Ootanwalla, a Khoja, residing at Dawood Lane before Mr. W. R. Hamilton, Second Presidency Magistrate, with enticing away her eldest son, about 8 years of age, from her lawful custody and forcibly removing her younger son, about three years of age. Mr. Dalvi, pleader, appeared for the plaintiff while Mr. Mody, barrister-at-law, appeared for the defendant. The complainant, in her information, said she used to reside with the accused, but owing to the ill-treatment she received had been obliged to leave him in the month of August last, and few days afterwards the accused went to the prosecutrix's house during her absence and enticed away her eldest son. The prosecutrix went to the accused and asked him to return her son, and he promised to do in a day or two; but he did not fulfil his promise and subsequently, accompanied by two or three persons, he went to her house and forcibly took away her younger son from her custody. The accused tried to forcibly take away her two daughters, but he could not succeed, as, on hearing her cries, the neighbours came to so her rescue, and prevented him from taking the girls away. The woman further stated that the accused had no right to the children as he was not their father. The accused, in defence, stated that he had married the naikin, who was converted to Mahomedanism, and he was the natural father of the children. The case was adjourned for further inquiry.

LUCKNOW POLO TOURNAMENT.

GLOUCESTER REGIMENT vs. H. L. I.

THE second game of the first ties of the Infantry Polo Tournament was played off on Wednesday afternoon before a large assemblage of people. The game, though interesting from the fine play of the Gloucestershire team, and of Captain Capel Cure especially, was not up to that of the previous tie, from both teams being far from equally matched. The Bombay side players were splendidly mounted and, in addition to their straight hand and sure hitting, they outrode their opponents, who played on pluckily and undaunted as if they hoped to turn the fortune of the game even near its close.

The sides were—Gloucestershire Regiment:—Messrs. Venables-raoul and Captains Capel Cure, and Baxter; the Highland Light Infantry:—Messrs. Campbell and Neilson, Captain Scrase-Dickins and Mr. Sandys Lumsdaine, their places in the game being according to the order given. The umpires were Captain Capper, East Lancashire Regiment, and Mr. Kellit, Royal Irish; referee, Major Babbington, 16th Lancers.

First Period.—Venables deprived Campbell of the ball and had a long shot at the flags. Then the play was for some time in the 74th end, their adversaries having two more shots at the flags. After this the ball was carried to the 61st quarters, whence Captain Capel Cure had a run to the opposite end and hit a goal. This was followed by Venables having another shot at the 74th goal. Then the ball was hit in, and the 74th, against stout opposition, got it into the 61st territory, where Neilson had a shot at the flags. Then later, when the ball was in the 74th ends the Bombay visitors hit another goal, but being off side was disallowed, and the Gloucestershire players had hit out from behind their goal when time was called.

Second Period.—This period witnessed play mostly in the 74th half of the ground. If the ball travelled across the centre it was speedily sent back, and Captain Capel Cure by his splendid hitting, and being well supported, scored four more goals.

Third Period.—After some good play along the length of the ground the 74th once confined the ball to the 61st end, where the goal was attacked, but a score was averted and the ball driven to the centre, whence shortly Captain Capel Cure drove it near the flags and hit a goal.

Fourth Period.—The 74th played up splendidly, and got more than one advantage which they were foiled in carrying to any satisfactory conclusion, while the 61st had three or four good runs. In one Captain Capel Cure broke his stick, and in the others the ball missed the flags. Toward the end of the game the 74th, through their adversaries hitting the ball off side, were allowed a free hit at goal, but failed to benefit by it, the 61st winning ultimately by six goals to love.

The final game between the two winning teams is looked forward to with great interest, opinion being equally divided as to which team will win, but all agree that we shall witness a very fast game as both teams are splendidly mounted.

Ahmedabad, 10th February 1892.

REPUDIATION OF AN INFANT MARRIAGE BY A PARSEE LADY.

THE case of Shirinbai Muncherji Sheriarjee Mistry against Cursetjee Nusserwanjee Mussalawalla, in which the plaintiff seeks for a declaration of nullity of her alleged marriage with the defendant, on the ground of her having been an infant of about two years at the time of the marriage, came on for hearing on the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th inst. before Mr. Choonilal Kavishwar, Second Class Subordinate Judge of Broach. Mr. Dinshaw Jeejeebhoy (of Messrs. Ardesir, Hormusjee and Dinshaw, solicitors of Bombay), Mr. Burjorji Nusserwanjee, vakil of Surat, and Mr. Mohanlal Maneeklal, vakil of Broach, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Nowrojee Ardesir and Mr. Kishordas, vakils, represented the defendant. Some time ago we gave at length the evidence that was recorded in this case under a commission before Mr. Vander Straaten, then Registrar, but now one of the Judges of the Small Causes Court, Bombay.

Mr. Dinshaw, in his opening address to the court, said that the preliminary question as to the jurisdiction of the Court to try this suit had been disposed of by the Court some time ago, in favour of the plaintiff. In commenting upon the several questions of law, custom, and religion involved in the case, Mr. Dinshaw observed that this was a very important case, and he asked the Court's most serious consideration to the issues involved in it. As to the question of limitation, he observed that practically there was no limitation to such a suit. Every moment the defendant asserted that the plaintiff was his wife, she was entitled to come before the Court and have it declared that she was not his wife. Mr. Dinshaw argued that the rules and principles of the English law of marriage applied to the case; that the principle of suits for jactitation of marriage and suits for restitution of conjugal rights applied to this case; that the cause of action ran from the time when claim or demand was made; and that no reliance should be placed upon the case reported at High Court. (Printed Judgments, 1883, page 124.) The learned advocate further argued that, in cases of continuing breaches and continuing wrongs, the cause of action was a continuing one. (Starling's Indian Limitation Act, page 107, 1st edition.) There was no other article of the Indian Limitation Act than the article 120, which should apply to this case, i. e., 6 years from the date when the right to sue accrued. Such right accrued to the plaintiff when the plaintiff completed 21 years of her age, and not 18. Mr. Dinshaw drew the attention of the Court to Section 2 of the Indian Majority Act, subsection A, and section 3 of the Parsee Marriage and Divorce Act XV. of 1865, contending that a Parsee was not a "sui juris" for the purpose of marriage until he or she attained 21 years of age. Mr. Dinshaw further argued that while 21 years was the age fixed for contracting marriage, all other relations arising out of it should be regulated by that age. When a person was not in a position to contract a marriage, when he or she was not "sui juris" for entering into a marriage contract, he or she could not be "sui juris" for the purpose either of having that marriage dissolved or having it declared a nullity. There was a doubt in the plaint as to when the plaintiff reached her majority, but that did not affect the plaintiff's strict rights. That doubt had been cleared up. Even if that be an admission, it could not prejudice the plaintiff's right. (I. L. R., Cal. IV. 529 to 531.) Mr. Dinshaw further argued that the question of limitation was not even raised in the case of Peshotan Hormusjee Dustoor vs. Meherbai, decided by Mr. Justice Scott a couple of years ago. The plaintiff being born in September, 1866, the cause of action arose on 20th of September, 1887, when she became 21 years old. The suit was filed on 11th September, 1890. Coming to the third issue, viz., was there or was there not a valid marriage between the parties, Mr. Dinshaw read from the evidence taken under commission in Bombay, and commented upon it and on the numerous documents put in. Mr. Dinshaw said that the special legislative enactments for the Parsees in the Presidency town and Mofussil were framed after anxious consideration, and after ascertaining the views and sentiments of the whole Parsee community in British India. Coming to the questions of the Parsee religion, the advocate said that until the naujot, sacred shirt-and-thread ceremony, was performed, a Parsee child could not be treated as a Zoroastrian in the strict sense of the word, and the marriage of such a child would not fall under the Parsee Marriage and Divorce Act. The learned advocate here referred to the following marriage formula from the Ashirwad ceremony—"In the name of God, this maiden, this woman, do you join with your relations in agreement for this marriage with honorable mind," with the three words Mansani, Gavasni, Kunasni, to promote their own good deed for this contract for life? (2) "Do you both accept this contract for life with honorable mind, that pleasure may come to you both?" These two questions were always put to the bride and bridegroom. In asking the Court to construe the Act, Mr. Dinshaw drew the Court's attention to the Canons of interpretation of Statute as laid by Mr. Maxwell in his work on the interpretation of statute, adding that, viewing it by the light of the history relating to the enactment of the Parsee Marriage and Divorce Act, the Court would come to the conclusion that the Act did not recognize infant marriages. (I. L. R., XVII, Cal. 852.) Mr. Dinshaw read from the abstracts of the decisions of the defunct Parsee Punchayet, to show that in those days marriages were dissolved if the parties to them could not live peaceably. The learned advocate added that the Parsee Marriage and Divorce Act considerably modified the Law of Parsee Child-Marriage. The three essentials of a valid marriage, mentioned in section 3 of the Act, did not exhaust the list of essentials of a valid contract of marriage, and the absence not only of these three essentials, but of other essentials to a valid contract, should not prevent the Court from entering on a consideration of the same whenever proper occasion arose. Referring to the state of lawlessness among the Parsees, Mr. Dinshaw read from Mr. Dosabhoy Framjee's History of the Parsees, and observed that there was no settled law of marriage among the Parsees before the passing of the Act, and that bigamy was very common both in Bombay and in the Mofussil. Accordingly on the representation of the Parsee Law Association, Government appointed a commission under the presidency of Sir Joseph Arnould, which took evidence and submitted a report to Government. The orthodox portion of the community wished that such marriages should be sanctioned by the Act, but the advanced party asked that no such sanction should be given. They wished that such marriages should not be altogether binding, but they wished to have a loophole for some redress through the Parsee Punchayet. Referring to the resolution of the Government of Bombay and Sir Joseph Arnould's report, and the speech of the Hon'ble Mr. L. Anderson, who was in charge of the Parsee Marriage and Divorce Bill, Mr. Dinshaw observed that the Act did not prohibit infant-marriage, but to make it more clear, that the legislature did not approve of such contract, the Hon'ble Mr. Anderson proposed a new clause, which became section 37 of the present Act. The upshot was that the legislature meant to imply that they did not prohibit infant marriage, and at the same time they did not sanction it.

SATURDAY EVENING, FEB. 13.

An advance of ¼ per cent. took place in the price of Consols in London yesterday, at 96; and Indian Sterling Loan was higher to the same extent at 107; but the market rates of discount were unaltered. Bar Silver was ⅛d. lower, at 41⅛d. per oz.; and Rupee Securities declined ¼ per cent. in Fours, at £68 11-16, but were unchanged in 4½ per Cents, at £67⅞; while, in New York, the metal was ⅛ cent higher, at 90⅜ cents, with demand Exchange on London unaltered, at 4·88½ dollars. The United States Treasury bought yesterday 179,000 ounces of Silver at 90·50 to 90·60 cents. per oz. The Indian Council allotted Rs. 30,000 of extra Bills on Bombay, at 1s. 3⅞d., which is 1-16d. above the regular allotment rate for Bills on Wednesday, though 1-32d. below the extreme price obtained for the Transfers placed on the same day. The Exchange Bank's buying rate on London at 30 days' sight remained at 1s. 3⅜d. The weekly Specie Shipments consisted of £170,000 on Silver to this port. Paris quotations were unchanged at 95⅞ for Rentes; and Fcs. 25·18¾ for Exchange on London.

A further decline of ¼d. per oz. has taken place to-day in the value of silver in London at 40⅝ per oz., the only other financial news wired from London being the withdrawal of £175,000 in Gold from the Bank of England, destination unknown. To-day's message from New York reports Silver ¼ cent lower there, at 90½ cents per oz., with Exchange on London unaltered.

The Wheat and Seed markets were presumably unchanged yesterday, no further advices regarding them being to hand through Reuter. The quantity of Wheat afloat for the United Kingdom yesterday was 2,940,000 quarters or 60,000 quarters more than was upon the water a week ago.

Cotton in Liverpool closed firm last evening; Surats dull; and arrivals flat; the total sales having been 14,000 bales, of which 400 bales were East Indians. The price of spot American Cotton remained at 3⅜d. per lb.; but Arrivals were 1-32d. higher in all positions except May-June, in which the advance was 3·64d. the extreme quotations being 3 49-64d. for February and February-March deliveries, and 3 61-64d. for June-July. In East Indian Cotton there was a decline of ¼d. in all grades of Bengal and Westerns, and in "Good" Tinnevelly," "Fully Good Fair" Tinnevelly being 1-16d. lower. The day's Imports were 21,000 bales. The Manchester market was firmer.

This afternoon, the Liverpool Market closed firm, with a good business doing; Surats steady, and Arrivals quiet but steady. Spot prices have not changed; but American Arrivals have further advanced 1-32d. for the near deliveries, 3-64d. for the most distant, and 1-64d. in intermediate positions. The Sales have aggregated 10,000 bales, inclusive of 400 East Indian. The Imports are 11,000 bales. The Manchester Market has been quiet.

Business in Cotton in Liverpool continued about the same scale during the week ending yesterday as in the week preceding, the total Sales having been 1,000 bales less at 56,000 bales (of which only 1,000 were Surats) while the amount forwarded to consumers was 5,000 bales greater, at 80,000 bales. The Imports were 7,000 bales more, at 94,000 bales. The total Stock had increased during the week by 9,000 bales, and, as it stood yesterday, it was 652,000 bales heavier than at the same time last year, and 685,000 bales more than in 1890. The total Visible Supply had become greater by 50,000 bales, and of East-Indian Cotton there were 10,000 bales more in sight, the figures which we give below for comparison showing an increase in the total Supply of 1,072,900 bales and 1,599,000 bales, as against last year, and the year before, respectively; and in the case of East Indian Cotton, a falling off of 218,000 bales, and 174,000 bales, in the same comparison. The Stock of Surats in Liverpool was yesterday 47,000 bales. The spot price of American Cotton in Liverpool declined 3-16d. per lb. during the week under notice, and was yesterday 1 3-16d. lower than at the same time last year, and 2 5-16d. below that ruling in 1890; Arrivals having been 1-32d. lower than they were a week ago, in most positions.

In New York, spot Cotton was unchanged yesterday, at 7 3-16 cents; but May Futures were 6 points lower, at 7·05 cents. The Receipts at the U. S. Ports were 27,000 bales, the week's total being again much in excess of that in the corresponding week in both the preceding years—especially 1890—and the excess in the total Receipts this season compared with the two previous ones, 199,000 bales, and 569,000 bales respectively. The quantity in sight yesterday was 7,530,000 bales compared with 7,310,000 bales visible a week ago.

To-day, the spot price has been unchanged in New York; but Futures for May have advanced 10 points to 7·15 cents. The Receipts are 14,000 bales against 20,000 bales last year, and 12,000 bales the year before.

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1892.

THE Seventh Annual Report of the Central Committee of the Countess of Dufferin Fund, shows that the objects of the National Association for supplying Medical Aid to the Women of India are better appreciated than it was seven years since, when the movement was set on foot by Lady Dufferin at the instance of her Majesty the Queen. At that time, as Sir Comer Petheram called to mind at the general meeting held a year ago in Calcutta, native gentlemen told him that the thing was not wanted in India, that the people were quite satisfied with the existing condition of things and that they did not want new fangled methods of treatment. Sir Comer owned that these statements were very discouraging, for they led him to fear that the prejudices and customs of the people were so strong that they were not to be reached by any scheme of the kind. The result has falsified these apprehensions. The experience of seven years shows that the people have come to understand that the new system of medical treatment has none of the terrors imputed to it by the ignorant imagination, and that it is in reality a vast improvement in methods and result upon the old. In the year 1891 upwards of 466,000 women have been treated in the various hospitals and dispensaries of the Association, showing an increase of 63,000 over the numbers treated in the previous year, which again gave an increase of one hundred and fifty thousand upon the figures of 1889. This is satisfactory evidence of very real progress, especially since it has been achieved, as the Hon'ble Mr. Amir Ali pointed out last year, in the face of prejudices, ignorant suspicions, and misrepresentations. These difficulties have been especially abundant in Bengal where, as the same speaker had occasion to point out although money is always available for the maintenance of asylums for useless animals no thought was taken for the succour of suffering women, and men who spend thousands upon the marriage of a daughter grudge five rupees on her treatment in illness. It is not in Bengal only, it is to be feared, that rich people are to be found who lay out large sums on the funeral ceremonies of their womankind when a few rupees might have saved their lives. Still the evidence of progress is manifest, and the results accomplished in the teeth of many difficulties and discouragements during the first seven years of the existence of the Fund is an earnest of fuller fruition in the next septennate.

The report recapitulates the objects of the Association, which are to provide medical relief to the women and children in their homes, of India, and the establishment of hospitals, dispensaries, and wards under the superintendence of properly-qualified female medical practitioners. To secure this result the first step is to effect the improvement of medical tuition and the training of women in India as doctors, hospital assistants, nurses, and midwives. It is the endeavour of the Association to secure the supply in private houses, as well as in hospitals, of trained female nurses for women and children. Lady Lansdowne, the president, and the Central Committee endeavour to foster and extend the movement on the lines laid down in the Memorandum of Association carried into practice under the direction of Lady Dufferin and Ava The Central Committee is the link between all the branches, collecting information and assigning grants-in-aid, while it is in direct communication with those parts of the country where there are no branches and with Native Princes who are disposed to aid the work. The Central Committee guides the general policy of the branches, but does not interfere in details. The branches have their own funds, but are expected to contribute to the general fund, as may be arranged from time to time. During the year two members of the Central Committee who had done excellent work, Sir A. Scoble and Sir A. Wilson, retired. Their places were taken by Mr. G. R. Elsmie and Mr. J. L. Mackay, C.I.E. There is a branch in London, presided over by Lady Dufferin, which represents the Central Committee in matters which have to be transacted in England. Provincial Branches have now been established very generally throughout the country. The latest creation has been that in Beluchistan, which has received the name of Lady Sandeman. The report accords special praise to Lady Elliott and Sir Auckland Colvin, the presidents of the Bengal and North-West-Provinces and Oude branches, which made excellent progress through their personal exertions. The number of lady-doctors and hospital assistants working in India in connection with the Fund is 41, of whom nine are lady-doctors of the first class, as compared with thirteen in the previous year; 32 assistant surgeons, showing an increase of five under that head. The hospital assistants are 21. Death and illness have afflicted the medical staff. Mrs. Isa Foggo, in charge of the Dufferin Zenana Hospital in Calcutta, and Mrs. Grant Bonnar, the lady-doctor employed by the State of Kotah in the female hospital there, both of whom have displayed energy and zeal in the furtherance of the work of the Fund, succumbed; as did Miss Cray. These deaths, the illness of others, and the departure of Mrs. Van Ingen from Calcutta to take up an appointment at Colombo, caused many changes among the ladies holding charge in the principal hospitals under the Fund.

A change has been made in the form of agreement, which has to be executed by lady-doctors at home, who desire to obtain employment under the Fund in India. It is now stipulated that lady-doctors shall submit to supervision by the District Surgeon or other Commissioned Medical Officer under Government in charge of medical school as principal, or as civil surgeons of districts, and obey all orders given by such medical officer in matters connected with their duties. In its original form the agreement seemed to require no more than that the lady-doctors should recognise the authority of the administrative medical officers or Deputy Surgeons-General of the Province. The condition has been recast to make it clear that where a lady-doctor is employed in tuition in a medical school, she is subject to the general supervision of the principal. It is incumbent on her to report to the principal when she is in charge of a hospital attached to a medical school, and to the civil surgeon elsewhere, when a serious case is brought to the wards, and to consult him in any case of doubt or difficulty. A further condition which has been deemed advisable, is the rendering compulsory of the acquisition of the Vernacular of the Province in which the lady-doctor is employed. A language allowance of Rs. 50 per month will be granted to those passing the examination, while on the other hand those who fail to acquire the Vernacular within two years of their appointment are liable to have their engagement terminated at six months' notice. Dr. Mary Hannan, who has succeeded Mrs. Grant Bonnar at the Victoria Hospital in Kotah, has passed the examination and obtained the allowance. The work of tuition is from the point of view of the ultimate results aimed at, perhaps the most important of all. Two hundred and twenty-four European and native ladies were under medical instruction during the year, seventy-three training as assistant surgeons, eighty-eight as hospital assistants, and sixty-three as nurses and dhais. The qualifications and general good behaviour of the pupils, and their ability and application are acknowledged by the principals of colleges and the lady superintendents of boarding-houses. At the Medical College, Calcutta, there were forty-one lady-students, of whom four had matriculated at the University. The Central Committee formed the opinion that the standard of education should be raised. The Government of Bengal has, in consequence, ruled that the University Entrance Examination shall in future be the standard of admission, and that the period of study for the Female Certificate Class shall be raised from three years to four. It is expected that this decision will for a time diminish the number of candidates, but that a more uniformly high class of students will be obtained. The Central Committee has brought the action of the Bengal Government to the notice of the Governments of Bombay and Madras, with a view to the introduction of the same change. In Bombay sixty-two female students have passed through the Grant College in the eight years during which that institution has been open to women. Last year twenty-six students were under tuition, of whom Dr. Wellington Gray reported favorably. At the Cama Hospital sixteen pupil nurses were under training, forty-five having been passed through since 1887. Perhaps the most interesting reference in the report to the personnel of the lady-pupils is that which mentions that amongst the twenty-three pupils at the Rangoon Hospital is the Myingoondine Princess, grand-daughter of the late Mindoon Min, King Theebaw's predecessor. This lady intends to enter the Calcutta Medical College in order to qualify as lady-doctor among the Burmese. The Provincial Report remarks that the work the Myingoondinge Princess has chosen is so contrary to the traditions of her people, and involves such a self-abnegation that her example cannot but have an important influence upon Burmese public opinion in these matters. Her services to the cause are, says the Rangoon Committee, very truly, a matter for congratulation and far more important in many ways than would appear at first sight. We can testify from personal knowledge to the talents and accomplishments of this Princess, who is one of the family of King Mindoon Min, rescued from prison on the British occupation of Burma in 1885. Another interesting pupil at the Rangoon hospital, who also intends to follow the medical course at Calcutta, is Amy, the daughter of a Karen, who is an Advocate in Rangoon. The Burmese and Karen pupils perform their professional duties so satisfactorily that they are in demand in the homes of the principal Europeans, Burmese, and Chinese of Rangoon, and medical men throughout the Province speak highly of their qualities as sick nurses. From Beluchistan to Burmah, the lot of suffering womanhood has been ameliorated by the sustained efforts of the Association during the last seven years, and even greater results may be looked for in the years to come.

IF the resolve of the Miners' Federation to stop work in the English collieries in mid-March be carried out a greater blow will be dealt to manufactures and commerce throughout the world than the outbreak of a great war would inflict. A little more than a year ago a proposal to stop work in all European collieries was debated for five days at the Labour Congress in Paris and came within a measurable distance of being carried. The representatives of the British Mining Associations who were present, pledged themselves that if the lesser strike of the Belgian miners, decided upon as sufficient for present needs, was in danger of being rendered nugatory by the action of English coal-owners in supplying coal to the Belgian railways and factories they would call out the miners in England and shut down the mines. The German and French representatives pledged themselves to take a similar course; the scene was specially impressive for all the representatives of labour present stood up and bound themselves to stand by the Belgian miners in language which was likened to the oath taken in the Tennis Court at Versailles on the eve of the Revolution. This remarkable incident drew attention in England, and indeed, throughout Europe to the extent of the peril which might be precipitated at any moment by the new unionism which can lay an embargo upon coal, and lay every steamer, every locomotive, every factory working by steam power throughout the world under an interdict, and bring civilization itself on its knees to the proletariat. It is reasonable to presume that the Miners' Association which was represented at the Paris Labour Congress, and was pledged to "solidarity" with the Continental miners in view of certain contingencies, has some assurance or expectation of cosmopolitan support if the threatened stoppage of the collieries in March be ordered. The stoppage of the output of coal, even if it were confined to the English collieries, would involve unmeasured calamity to every manufacturing industry in the Empire. If there be any reason to anticipate the realisation even partially of such a project it will be necessary to take thought for the consequent scarcity of coal, and a considerable advance in its price. In this view we can regard with satisfaction the now assured success of plans for bringing petroleum in tank steamers through the Suez Canal to the Eastern markets. With an abundance of that cheap and most manageable form of fuel, the worst effects of a diminution or cessation of the usual supplies of coal might be in some measure obviated. On the Caspian, steamers use petroleum instead of coal. There can be no doubt that if coal becomes scarce and dear, the use of petroleum oil procured either from Russia or America, would soon become general for the heating of boilers. As a substitute for gas petroleum has established a reputation. But a further step has been made. Petroleum gas is more easily made, and is not much more costly than gas made from coal. The National Miners' Federation may, after all, find, if they push matters to extremities, that the resources of civilisation are not exhausted.

THE story of the capture of Mayun, as told by the correspondent of our frontier military contemporary, is one which is worthy the pen of Mr. Archibald Forbes, and the deeds of the men whose prowess he recounts are certainly deserving a place in song. A brilliant escalade he calls it, and no other term can adequately describe the action in which our troops defeated the hitherto unconquered brigands and tyrants of the Kashmir frontier. A small column of a thousand of our men found themselves in front of as formidable a position as it was possible to imagine, which repeated reconnaissances pronounced practically unassailable. Seventeen days were spent in preparation and in harrassing the enemy, whom it seemed impossible to dislodge. The difficulty was to find a path by which the men could get at close quarters with the enemy without, at the same time, subjecting themselves to a murderous fire. At last a sepoy of the Kashmir Bodyguard—"as brave a man as he was an accomplished cragsman"—suggested a plan which was adopted by Captain Colin Mackenzie, who was temporarily in

THE DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS IN REPLY.

FURTHER AMENDMENTS.

In the House of Commons, yesterday, an amendment to the Address in reply, moved by Mr. John Redmond and supported by the Anti-Parnellites, in favour of granting an amnesty to the Irish dynamiters, was rejected on a division by a majority of seventy-one votes. The Liberals opposed the amendment.

Mr. MacNeill substituted for his previous amendment relating to the elective principle to the Indian Councils an amendment to the Address, demanding that natives of India should be placed on terms of equality with Europeans as regards public appointments.

Mr. Curzon, Under-Secretary for India, denied that the pledges given in this respect had been broken, and he dwelt on the constant increase in the employment of natives in public offices, and especially, in execution of the report of the Public Service Commission.

After some further discussion Mr. MacNeill withdrew his amendment.

The "General" was greeted with deafening cheers, guns being fired and rockets discharged. On landing a huge procession was formed and marched from the docks to the Salvation Hall, where an immense meeting was held to welcome him home.

The "General," in returning thanks, spoke of the marvellous reception he had met with in India and the Colonies, and said he was convinced that his colonial scheme was feasible as there was abundance of room in the Colonies where, with proper management, the English poor would prosper.

BALLOON ASCENT AT CALCUTTA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, FEB. 14.

Yesterday Miss Van Tassell made her first parachute descent which was entirely successful. The proceedings were, however, marred by a serious encounter between the police and native sepoys. The former refused to let sepoys in without paying and turned them off the ground. The sepoys gathering a crowd of budmashes returned armed with sticks and other weapons and began assaulting the police. One of their ringleaders was captured, bound, and marched off. An excited rajah called out that the police were killing the man.

Attempts were thereupon made to effect a rescue. Several police officers arrived on the scene and attempted to restore order and ten European constables charged the mob. A general melee ensued; the policemen surrounded by an infuriated mob fought desperately against over three hundred men, who wrecked the native refreshment stalls, and threw bottles and broken furniture and other missiles at the policemen and all Europeans they could see. The police and Europeans were forced to retire within the grounds and shut the gates. Some of the crowd scaled the walls, but a cry was raised of troops being called out when they retreated and dispersed. Several ladies and gentlemen, seated in carriages watching the balloon, were hit by stones, splinters, and lemonade bottles.

The police were roughly handled and suffered severely. One European's life is despaired of in hospital. Another constable, who was very badly hurt lies in a critical condition in hospital. All who took part in trying to quell the riot were more or less injured.

Of the seventy-two members who are to constitute the new Municipal Corporation of Bombay, which comes into existence on the 1st April next, the ratepayers of the city have elected their thirty-six, and the Chamber of Commerce have elected their two nominees. To-day the Justices of the Peace exercise their privilege of nominating sixteen more Councillors. The Fellows of the Bombay University elect their two representatives on Friday, the 19th inst., and it will then be the turn of the Government to appoint the remaining sixteen nominees, making up the full complement of seventy-two Councillors.

The Justices' election to-day has excited more than usual interest, there being thirty-four competitors for the sixteen seats at their disposal. The contest is unusually keen, for we find that, at the election in 1883, the number of candidates was twenty-four, while at the elections in 1886 and 1889, it was only twenty-one. Of the present thirty-four candidates, ten are Europeans, ten Parsees, eight Hindus, three Mahomedans, two East Indians, and one Jew. Twenty-three of them are already members of the existing Corporation; fourteen of them are tried and experienced Councillors who were elected as the Justices' representatives at the last election in 1889, and some of whom have been elected by the Justices successively for many years past, and have done eminent service; while the remaining eleven are new candidates.

The fourteen candidates who were elected by the Justices in 1889 and in previous years are:—1. Mr. Anundrao Narayen Wasudeo. 2. Dr. Thomas Blaney. 3. Messrs. Byramjee Nusserwanjee Servai. 4. Darashah Ruttonjee Chiohgar. 5. Eknath Raghunath Khote. 6. Grattan Geary. 7. Hassumbhai Visram. 8. Jamsetjee Cursetjee Cama. 9. The Hon. Mr. Javerilal Umiashanker Yajnik. 10. Mr. K. N. Kabrajee. 11. Brigade-Surgeon Maconachie. 12. Khan Bahadur Muncherjee Cowasjee Murzban, C.I.E. 13. Mr. Phirozshah M. Mehta. 14. Captain W. P. Walshe.

The twenty-three candidates who are already members of the existing Corporation are:—1. Messrs. Amirudin Tyebjee. 2. Anandrao Narayen Wasudev. 3. Brigade-Surgeon Banks. 4. Dr. Burjorjee Sorabjee Shroff. 5. Dr. Thomas Blaney. 6. Mr. Byramjee Nusserwanjee Servai. 7. Dr. Cowasjee Pestonjee. 8. Messrs. Darasha Ruttonjee Chichgar. 9. Eknath Raghunath Khote. 10. J. F. Fernandez. 11. Grattan Geary. 12. Reginald Gilbert. 13. Hussumbhai Visram. 14. Hormusjee C. Coorlawalla. 15. Jamsetjee Cursetjee Cama. 16. The Hon. Mr. Javerilal Umiashunker Yajnik. 17. Mr. K. N. Kabrajee. 18. Brigade-Surgeon Maconachie. 19. Khan Bahadur Muncherjee C. Murzban, C.I.E. 20. Messrs. Nowrojee Byramjee Suntook. 21. Pheroshah M. Mehta. 22. Captain W. P. Walshe. 23. Colonel W. H. Wilson.

The eleven new candidates, who are not members of the Corporation, are:—1. Messrs. Selim Solomon. 2. J. S. Maidment. 3. Bhaishunker Nanabhoy. 4. Shamrao Pandurang. 5. Hajee Sulleman Abdul Wahed. 6. Nanu N. Kothare. 7. Narayen Meghajee Lokhunday. 8. L. M. Valladares. 9. J. P. Baird. 10 Charles H. Byrne. 11. Ganputrao M. Pitale.

LONDON IN MOURNING.

(FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JAN. 20.

I LEFT London last July and have not been here since. What a contrast between then and now! Then the Emperor's visit was hardly over, and though people might profess themselves tired of pageants, royal processions, great personages, and endless entertainments, and to be only longing for the country, yet the streets were sunny and crowded with eager people, brightly dressed, driving, walking, talking, and shouting. Now, I return in a cold, a very cold thaw, to a comparatively deserted, mourning city. I had bought a paper at a junction in the early morning of Thursday, 14th instant, and learnt that the last telegrams on Wednesday night spoke of an improvement in the Prince's condition. As the train rolled into Cannon Street station cautiously through fog-signals, I caught sight of a Union Jack flying at half-mast, on some building close to the line, and made an involuntary exclamation to my neighbour in the railway carriage. All heads were craned to see the fatal signal. At Cannon Street I jumped out, and questioned the nearest porter, "The Prince is dead, Sir," with a sad shake of the head, and it was not the last sad face I saw that day. I shall never forget the look of the streets, as I left Charing Cross it was no imagination, there was grief in every face and on some a shocked and apprehensive expression. No one seemed to be talking, only the newspaper-boys yelled "Death of the Duke of Clarence," and though he died at 9, this was only 11 o'clock, the news was evidently already stale, ghastly stale, and no one turned his head to look at the fluttering posters, nor seemed to care to buy a paper. Only outside Marlborough House a considerable crowd were elbowing each other, and straining against the railings to read the official announcement of the sudden change for the worse that morning, and the end. All shops had their black shutters up and in the principal drapery shops any black and white goods, however unseasonable and old-fashioned, were being hurriedly substituted for coloured ones. The truth is that this tragedy with its surrounding circumstances of peculiar pathos has come on a depressed, a frightened community, in which Death has entered many houses, and sickness is in almost every one, on a land, stricken with a plague, where the common grief, the common fear has for the moment quenched class feeling, and all England tearing and mourning together. A man told me who had cause to visit Marlborough House on business just as the flag was being run up to half-mast and the announcement placed outside, that, as he came out, there were many men honestly crying and several turned to him, stranger as he was, and spoke with feeling of the tragedy. After all we are not such an unemotional people.

Last Sunday was not one to be forgotten. Even in a small Church, north of Oxford Street, to which I went in the morning it was impressive enough to see the rows of people in black with bowed heads praying for the Royal Family, as well as to be delivered from this plague of sickness, and standing at the end while the Dead March was played; but in the afternoon at St. Paul's Cathedral the sight was solemn indeed. Canon Scott Holland preached, and with his ringing, almost singing voice shaken with emotion, spoke with stirring eloquence and scholarly smile of "how Death was passing like a shadow over the length and breadth of the land—they who lived sadly watched while name after name was struck off the roll of those that served Church and Queen and Country. He spoke first of "The great Cardinal Henry Edward Manning! For 50 years the name had been familiar in the mouths of all Englishmen. Forty years ago he left us, and now we had ceased almost to remember how resolute and sharp was the war he waged in mid-life against the Church he had forsaken. So deeply had we learnt of late to revere in him, the devoted adherent of all high causes. Almost his last word before he died was of him whose young life was ebbing fast, and whose soul was to follow him within an hour, through the grave and gate of Death. What words were needed to heighten the tragedy of this young man's fate. It spoke surely of itself with a force no words could give it. Death had crowded into the brief drama of last week, everything that filled our human days with pathos, with terror and with tears.

It was a throne that was at stake, it was a nation's hopes which were turned at one stroke of Death's wing to dust and ashes, and yet, after all, that was not what made it all touch us with such a tragic intensity—it is a home, we feel, that lies shattered before our eyes, a loved home, whose windows are darkened, whence joy has fled. It is a father of whom we think, a father who bows his head in anguish over his first-born, his heir, on whom all his hopes had rested since the first hour that he lay in the cradle long ago. It is a mother, whom we are all remembering—that delicate, gracious lady, whom all loved as a friend, so winning, so fair, so young still, who lies now prostrate and broken, tasting such bitter sorrows as only mothers know. And there is another, whose name is on every lip, whose grief is the spring of our profoundest pity, a girl in the flush of her first love, moving in the light of happy greetings towards the near gladness of her marriage morn. The broken home, the cruel pathos of lost love, who is not touched by such tragedies as these? A single pulse of emotion makes the whole kingdom one."

I hope I shall not have taxed your readers' patience by transcribing too much of this sermon. It was a fine one, and moved the great crowd who heard it. Canon Holland is a Radical in opinions, so his words of respect, and sympathy to the throne are of the more value. It must have been some 6,000 people, all in black, who stood after the blessing, and—but for occasional movements of white handkerchiefs here and there—with a peculiar stillness, whilst the Dead March thundered round the great dome. Expressions of regret may be heard on all sides that the military funeral is not to pass through London, but I hear that the Prince of Wales is bent on personally accompanying the body of his son to the last, and certainly the ordeal of a slow procession through London in possibly a black fog, or snow, would be a terrible one, not only for the chief mourners, but for all who might witness it, and it would probably result in many more deaths. Prince Eddy is said to have caught his fatal chill at Prince Victor of Hohenlohe's funeral, and Lady Harleoh, sister of Princess Hohenlohe, also died last week of influenza following on a chill caught at this funeral. Everyone's first word in speaking of the tragedy is of Princess May, who by now has returned to her simple home and girl's life at Richmond, her great "occupation gone." I hear many approve cordially of the suggestion that the money subscribed throughout the country for her intended wedding-gifts, should be settled upon her for life, and some suggest that she should be given an English title. Were I writing to a paper that would be read less far away, I would not mention the other suggestion that is in fact in everyone's mind, and spoken with bated breath by every mouth, I mean that Princess May should in course of time marry Prince George. The country has shown plainly that it wants her for their Queen, and this fact, in combination with that of her being naturally much thrown with Prince George during this time when grief will have opened all hearts, makes the fulfilment of this idea seem possible.

Praise is always given readily to a man just after he is dead, but it is a fact that sometime before his illness three people who had all good means of judging told me that Prince Eddy had wonderfully developed during the last year. All who came in contact with him during his tour in India must have been struck by the fact that he was young of his age and with his boyish inattention to much that he was shown in India. Remembering this it may interest your readers to hear that a retired Anglo-Indian, who by chance fell into conversation with the Prince in a Club some three weeks ago, remarked to me shortly after how much Prince Eddy had "come on," and told me how eagerly and intelligently he had questioned as to people and events in the part of India, where they had met during his tour. The loss of such a young, untired man cannot be called a national calamity, but it is certainly a national sorrow. Perhaps it is happier for him to have died ere "the fierce light" began to beat upon him, to die with a character on which all who knew him best say there was never a spot as yet, uncriticised, and only loved.

Thursday, 21st.—The newspapers to-day are full of detailed accounts of the funeral at Windsor, and there is nothing to tell about London except that it is wrapped in black fog. I have happened to meet two eye-witnesses, who were at Windsor yesterday, one an officer in the Life Guards who was keeping the streets, one a mourner inside the chapel. The two things in the whole proceedings that seem to have stirred the onlookers most was the sound of the massed bands playing the funeral march, gradually swelling as the procession got nearer and nearer, and the little human touch of the Prince of Wales's action in kneeling at the words "Lord have mercy upon us" and resting his bowed head for a moment on the coffin. Cardinal Manning's funeral is to-day, and I am told the crowds streaming to the Oratory and from it are stupendous. I did not see the lying-in-state, but some one who did told me that the Cardinal's well-known splendid head and face looked tiny and shrunken below the great mitre, and amidst the magnificent trappings of the lying-in-state.

But your readers will be sated with sad details and descriptions, and every one here is weary of funerals and influenza, the latter, however, is impossible to forget, and almost everyone you speak to produces some weird little bottle containing some evil-smelling drug from their muff or waistcoat pocket, and recommends it as a safeguard. Of ordinary news there is but little to tell. Lord Rosebery is not going to be married, as so many of the papers announce, and the lady, with whose name his has been so officiously coupled, has not even met him to speak to since sometime before Lady Rosebery's death. Lord Rosebery still shuts himself up from everybody, but his relations and a few old friends, and writes on paper nearly an inch thick with black, so that these reports are the more unseemly and unkind. Mr. Balfour's great meeting and reception at Belfast were put off at the last moment, probably to his own great relief, as, unlike Mr. Gladstone, he finds no enjoyment in speech-making, but the Belfast people must feel rather tantalised, as his reception was to have been stupendous.

Your military readers may be interested to hear that Major-General Godfrey Clerk is to take command at Belfast in the spring.

At Mr. Van Ruith's studio, which I visited last week, I saw many delightful Italian subjects excellently treated, but his Indian pictures will be always to my mind his most individual and interesting productions. Sir Frederick Leighton and Mr. Peyton were there also, and were pleased to see—and all Mr. Van Ruith's friends in Bombay will be glad to hear how highly these leaders in art evidently thought of his work.

INSPECTION OF THE BOMBAY VOLUNTEER ARTILLERY.

THE annual inspection of the Bombay Volunteer Artillery, by Brigadier-General Budgen, Commanding Bombay Division, took place on Saturday evening. Reveille sounding at 5 a.m. had the whole camp up preparing for the inspection, and giving final touches to their helmet fittings and accoutrements. Both companies were drawn up facing the barrack in open order, waiting to receive the Inspecting Officer. About 7 o'clock, Brigadier-General Budgen, accompanied by Major Hilliard, A. A. G., arrived on the ground, and were received with a general salute. He then minutely inspected the men, arms and accoutrements. Fours were formed, and on the command, "Quarter column on No. 1," No. 2 Company formed up in rear of No. 1. The parade then advanced to the No. 2 point preparatory to the march past. On the command, "Advance in column by the right," both companies advanced to the march past at the shoulder. Ranks were changed, the parade again going by at the trail. The parade then formed fours left, and after deploying to the left, took up their original alignment. The artillerymen were then put through the manual and firing exercises by Lieutenants Slater and Robertson. After this had been gone through two gun detachments were fallen out under Sergeant Pinder and Corporal Marsland, and were marched to the guns to open fire. Sergeant Pinder's detachment fired the first shot at the moving target, which was a small boat with a sail on it; the five rounds fired by each detachment were all very good. Lieutenant-Colonel Pearse, R. A., directed the practice. Later on in the afternoon Brigadier-General Budgen, accompanied by Captain Swann, D. A. A. G., arrived in the Fort. On Tuesday morning the Wheal Cup Competition will come off. Colonel Pearse before leaving the Fort called the Gun Captain of the competing detachments and informed them of the way he would adjudge marks in the competition. Marks would be given for smartness of drill, knowledge of their respective duties by the members of the teams, and accuracy of laying. Two rounds could be fired by each detachment.

On Saturday evening the Volunteers were granted the privilege of inviting guests to the camp, and after dinner had been served, a capital smoking concert, at which General Budgen, Colonel Pearse, Major Boughton, and the other officers of the Volunteer Artillery were present, was held. The citizen soldiers proved themselves as capable in providing amusement for their friends, as they are of giving serious occupation for any enemy with sufficient temerity to attack them. Mr. B. Shelemberg, Mr. R. D. Hughes, Sergt-Major Chart, Corporal Marsland, Bombardier Jackson, Gunners Surl, Houghton, Pillow, McCulloch, Blodwell and others contributed successfully to the programme.

IN order to eradicate any wrong impression that may have been created in native minds by the publication in native papers of false rumours respecting the disposal of the bodies of Hindus who were killed in the recent collision near Okera, a contemporary states that the Hindu bodies were identified and separated from the rest by an educated and respectable Brahmin pleader, Gulab Chand, of Montgomery, who happened to be on the spot, and the incinerating ceremony was executed, by order of the Deputy Commissioner, under his personal supervision.

BOMBAY CLOSED RACES.

AN excellent afternoon's sport was afforded at the closed races, which commenced at Mahaluxmi, on Saturday afternoon. With the exception of the Selling Race, the entries were not too numerous, and some good racing, with close and exciting finishes was witnessed. There were six races in all, and commencing as they did about half-an-hour after the advertised time for the first race, which was down on the card for 3-45 p.m., it was not surprising that the last race was run in the dark. Nevertheless, the arrangements were well carried out. Lieut.-Colonel H. Symons officiated as judge, and with one exception, which was in the race for the Novice Stakes, when the field went away in rather bad order, no fault could be found with the starting. False starts were few, Mr. W. Whitehouse discharging his duties most efficiently. Great improvements have been made on the grand-stand and offices since last race meeting. The stand is now a "grand" stand in reality, being a handsome, substantial, comfortable structure, with, underneath, offices for secretary and stewards and dressing rooms for jockeys—an immense improvement on the unsatisfactory accommodation they had in this respect before. The following are results and details of Saturday's racing:—

1ST RACE.—The Yorkshire Cup. ¼ mile. Presented by the Officers of the K. O. Yorkshire L. I. Value, Rs. 199, with Rs. 50 from the Fund to 2nd horse. G Rs. only. For Arabs and C.-B. Galloways 13-3 and under.

Mr Gordon's g a p Cassidy, 11st 2lb., Capt Welman	3

Betting: 2 to 1 against Cassidy; 1½ to 1 against Sherry; and even against Barney.

When the flag dropped Cassidy assumed the lead; but they soon got together, and it was anybody's race till the corner was reached, when Barney forged ahead. Cassidy was overtaken near the post by Sherry, Barney won by a length, and three-quarters of a length separated second and third. Time—56 2-5 secs.

2ND RACE.—Selling Race. (Open.) ¼ mile. 1st horse, Rs. 150; 2nd horse, Rs. 50. For Galloways 13-3 and under.

Betting: 10 to 1 against Fareed; 14 to 1 against Thank You; 20 to 1 against Nasib, Hadayet, Sham Sir, Shatra, Young Greyleg, and Morning Star; 4 to 1 against Pekin, Sattara, and Aerolite; 12 to 1 against Agil; 8 to 1 against Greyling; 3 to 1 against Hermit; and 33 to 1 against Punch.

The field got away in very good order after two false starts. Thank You took the lead and kept it until the home corner was reached, when coming along the straight Pekin and Greyling drew up. It was a hard race to the post, and resulted in a most exciting finish, Pekin just winning by a neck. Time—56 2-5 secs.

3RD RACE.—Novice Stakes. (Closed to the Bombay Gymkhana, &c., under Rule 3.) 5 furlongs. 1st horse, Rs. 150; 2nd horse, Rs. 50. For Arabs and C.B. Galloways 13-3 and under.

Mr Foulkes' g a p Sly Boots, 10st 6lb, Mr May	2

Capt Harrison's b ch p Cavalier, 10st 11lb, Capt Welman	0
Mr Boyt's bl a p Chang, 11st, Owner	0

Betting: 10 to against Chang and Mystery; 4 to 1 against Cavalier; 5 to 1 against Sly Boots; 12 to 1 against Cupid; and 1½ to 1 against Allah.

This was the least exciting race of the afternoon. The start was bad to begin with, but it mattered little, for none of the horses seemed equal to Allah, which took the lead at the very outset, kept it all the way round, and won easily. Time—1 min. 10 secs.

4TH RACE.—The Stand Plate. (Closed.) 1 mile. 1st horse, Rs. 150; 2nd horse Rs. 50. For Arabs and C.-B. Horses.

Mr Gordon's b r a h Newminster, 11st 5lb, Owner	1
Col Willoughby's b a h Boy, 10st 13lb, Mr May	2
Mr Craig's b a g Bonnie Boy, 10st 5lb, Mr. Grey	3
Capt Harrison's b a g Volunteer, 10st 3lb, Capt Welman	0
Mr Moochal Shah's c h a g Ormonde, 10st 3lb, Aga Z Shah	0

Betting: 4 to 1 against Bonnie Boy; 6 to 1 against Newminster and Ormonde; and 2 to 1 against Volunteer and Boy.

The horses spread out very much at the start, Newminster leading. At about half distance they closed up again, and for a time a hard race was run. Nearing home, however, Newminster came out of the crowd again, forged ahead, and won a good race by about two lengths, one length separating second and third. Time—1 min. 59 secs.

5TH RACE.—The Melbourne Plate. (Open.) 1 mile. 1st horse, Rs. 150; 2nd horse, Rs. 50. A flat race for all horses.

Mr Burder's b a us g Billy, 10st 7lb, Mr May	1
Mr Martin's ch a us m Meg, 10st 7lb, Mr Gordon	2
Capt Peyton's g a us m Favourite, 10st 7lb, Capt Welman	3
Mr Craig's b a us g Laureate, 10st 7lb, Mr Grey	0
Mr Hunter's b a us g Paragon (by Euclid out of Peerless), 10st 7lb	0
Mr Hunter's ch a us g Jester (by Euclid out of Juanita, 10st 7lb	0

Betting: Even against Laureate; 6 to 1 against Meg; 8 to 1 against Favorite; 3 to 1 against Billy; 5 to 1 against Paragon; and 12 to 1 against Jester.

Considerable interest centred in this race from the fact that Mr. Hunter's new horses Paragon and Jester had entered. Some thought that Paragon would make a good race against Billy and Laureate, but an unfortunate beginning was made. Whether it was that the riders of the two new horses did not know that a false start was made, or that they were unable to pull up the strong, fresh animals, they ran a long way round before stopping and returning. The rider of one got his mount pulled up after covering about a furlong, but the other had got started to race, before he discovered what was wrong. He was seen pulling hard at the reins, but the animal ran about three-quarters of a mile before he was mastered and taken back. It could hardly be expected either of the horses, Jester especially, would do much good now, after such a gallop for nothing; and as it turned out, they were never in the running at all. Favourite made the running most of the way round, followed by Billy and Laureate. This order was maintained till they turned into the straight, when Billy passed Favourite, followed by Meg who up till this had been keeping in the rear. Billy won by only half a length, for when nearing the post, Meg was making upon him fast. It was a capital and most exciting finish. Time—1 min. 21 secs.

6TH RACE.—The Visitors' Plate. (Open.) 5 furlongs. 1st horse, Rs. 150; 2nd horse, Rs. 50. For Arabs and C.-B. Galloways 13-3.

Major Radcliffe's g a g Barney, 10st 13lb, Mr May	1
Mr Moochool Shah's g a g Speed of Thought, 10st 7lb, Aga S. Shah	2
Aga S Shah's g a p Pekin, 9st 9lb, Mahomed	3

Betting: 10 to 1 against Chang; 6 to 1 against Pekin, Turk, and Tawney; even against Speed of Thought and Barney.

This race was run in the dark, and its progress could not be watched. The finish was very close, the first three horses coming in all in a group, each having only about a neck the advantage of the other. Time—1 min. 7 secs.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE direct import of refined silver to India from Australia, it is stated is nearer fifty lakhs than two. The actual figures are: 1890-91, Rs 50,03,130; 1891-92 (to end of Dec.), 31,32,579. The Broken Hill lodes are believed to be largely responsible for the continued depression in the price of silver.

THE forecast of the rice crop for 1892 fails to tell a very hopeful tale. In Bengal the unfavourable character of the rainfall in the autumn of 1891 occasioned a considerable deficiency in area and in the outturn of the winter crop to about sixteen-annas of an average crop. In the deltas and in Madras the crops are said to be fair. In Burma, notwithstanding a decrease in area, the condition of the crop is satisfactory, and it is estimated that there will be available for export about a million tons of cleaned rice including the requirements of Upper Burma. Taking, therefore, sixteen annas to represent a full average crop, the estimated outturn of the three rice-growing provinces may be fixed at—Bengal nine annas; Madras ten annas; and Burma twelve to eighteen annas.

A RAILWAY accident—probably the first on that small line—happened to the Rohilkhund and Kumaon passenger train which left Kathgodam at 4-15 on the afternoon of the 9th instant. When near Kiccha two of the wagons next the engine were thrown off the rails, and the train came to a sudden and abrupt standstill, with a shock which caused considerable alarm among the passengers. Fortunately there were no casualties, and after nothing worse than a tedious delay of some hours, the European passengers, who included a lady and the Chaplain of Naini Tal, were forwarded to Bareilly on an engine, while the rest of the train was gradually taken in by instalments.

THE Allahabad University is already rich in funds. Its up-keep costs about half a lakh of rupees. Its closing balance after a most liberal expenditure of over Rs. 30,000 throughout the year was Rs. 12,000. It expects to realise Rs. 36,000 by examination fees in the current year, and, desirous of doing to others as it is done by, it means to give about Rs. 22,000 of this amount to examiners as remuneration for marking answers and setting question papers; Rs. 3,500 towards private printing, and the balance, added to a projected closing item of Rs. 12,500, will defray sundry expenses connected with maintenance of establishment, watch. and ward, &c. It is understood that the University will not this year repeat the liberality of defraying the income-tax on examiners' fees, as it is shown to have done last year by Rs. 681.

THE following story comes from Hongkong:—A gentleman received two lottery tickets direct from Manila which he had ordered to be sent to him. They were consecutive numbers. Not caring to keep so large an interest he let a friend have one. That one won the first prize, dols 100,000 his own was only worth dols 2,000, as the approximate number.

THERE is a project for burying all the American Presidents in a sort of national campo santo at Washington. Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, has it in hand, and has thus expressed himself to a reporter:—"We ought to have at the capital a Republican Westminster Abbey, where the remains of the Presidents could be gathered and the influence of their names and their lives be still present among us. As it is now, the Presidents are buried in widely-scattered spots, and in some cases, it is said, the graves do not receive that care and veneration which a grateful people ought to be glad to bestow upon all that is left of those who once presided over the destinies of this great nation." A resolution to this effect will be submitted by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, which has already introduced a resolution into the Senate providing for the removal of General Grant's remains to Washington.

MR. MICHIE SMITH, the Government Astronomer, writes to us:—"It may, perhaps, interest some of your readers to know that there is at present a very fine group of spots on the sun. The group is so large that it can be easily seen with the naked eye if the sun be viewed through a piece of dark glass. It can be seen still better by projecting the sun's image on a sheet of white paper by means of a telescope: even a small telescope if mounted on a fairly steady stand will do for this purpose. A rough measurement of the group shows that it extends from east to west about 146,000 miles, while from north to south it is about 70,000 miles."

IT has been frequently said that never were the importers' stables at Calcutta so full as they have been this season; and the statistics quite bear out general impressions on the subject. Up to the 31st December 4,180 horses had been landed from Australia, as against 2,860 in the same period of the previous year, and 2,600 in the year before that. Nor are walers driving other horses out of the Indian market, for the number of animals landed from Turkey and Persia this season has risen simultaneously, and the importations from "other countries," presumably the Cape and South America, have mounted from 89 to 851.

THE total imports into British India for the nine months ending on December 31st, show a falling off in value of a crore, the chief decrease being in yarns and textiles, which practically account for the entire deficiency. The exports, on the other hand, have increased by over six crores, and here the entire rise has been caused by the heavy extra shipments of wheat, Bengal, Bombay and Sindh showing great increases. This must, of course, have had a favourable influence on the railway traffic receipts, though many regard the exportation of grain at a time when serious scarcity threatens as by no means an unmixed advantage to the country.

AT a meeting of the Behar Landholders' Association held at Bankipore, on Thursday, Nawab Sarfraz Hussein presiding, it was proposed by Babu Bisesar Singh, seconded by Babu Sheopratap Narayan, the Maharaja Bahadur of Hutwa's agent, and carried, that a memorial to the Secretary of State against the Cadastral survey in North Gangetic Behar be submitted, and that the Maharaja Bahadur of Durbhungah, President of this

In some respect the most suggestive incident of the year, from a literary point of view, has been the glut in the French novel market. It was the gossip in Paris that shops were choked with novels for which there were no buyers. The great Achille, the bookseller, assured M. Claretie that people were sick of the deluge of novels and were taking a turn at history. For their parcel for the seaside it was not the last novel they clamoured for, but Marbot's Memoirs. If the analogy of other great epochs goes for anything, it is not unlikely that the great epochs in prose fiction of England and France, which must remain a chief literary glory of this century, are nearing their close. It is at the end of artistic epochs that the artist are in the habit of talking loudest of the great future they themselves are initiating. Poor Mr. Howells! Nobody need pity M. Zola. He is a robuster for sort. "Depuis 1869 le plan general est arrete, et je le suis avec une riguer extreme. C'est ce qui fait ma force." That is the way he talks.

THE cage that Mr. Garner has planned to take to Africa with him in order to study the "language" of the apes is made of a network of steel rods. The eight sections take apart for packing purposes. The size of the cage is to be six feet six inches square. When put in position, it will be anchored to to the ground by three strong chains passing across the top, in order to prevent the gorillas, whose immense strength is well known, from carrying the whole thing off to study at their leisure in the wilderness. The network is sufficiently fine to hinder them from putting their arms through. In this cage Mr. Garner is to seat himself at some considerable distance from his party, but he is to be connected with them by means of a telephone and an electric bell. The phonograph will take down the sounds uttered by the gorillas, and a camera placed in the fork of a tree, will take instantaneous photographs. Mr. Garner is a broad-shouldered man, of great physical strength. He is of French extraction, though five generations of his race have lived on American soil.

AN agitation has begun in Bavaria against Prince Bismarck's Act for securing pensions to aged and infirm working men. It is complained that the Act does not work well. The method of subscription to the insurance fund consists in the affixing of stamps by masters and men to a card. The master is bound to see that every person in his employment buys a stam every week representing a percentage of his wages, and the master on his side puts on the card a stamp of like value. But this leads to a good deal of friction with the authorities. Cards get lost, or the holders fall into arrears, or they change their place of residence, and are put to great trouble in getting their new addresses registered. Another grave objection to the plan in the eyes of workmen is that when a man applies for employment the master can tell by a glance at his card whether he has been in regular work. Thus a man who has been on strike is found out at once, and his card may be the means of preventing him from getting another situation. Moreover, young workmen grumble at having to pay every week for advantages which they will not enjoy till they are 70 years old. Altogether the Act has never been popular, and a petition is being extensively signed in Bavaria for its thorough amendment. The liberals, to Social Democrats, and the Catholics are united in promoting a movement for securing an abrogation of its inquisitorial system of operation.

IS the mediæval custom of chaining books in church porches or chancels still in existence in this country? Our contemporary, "The Reliquary," answers the question in the affirmative, and cites some instances. At Breadsall, in Derbyshire, there is a double reading-desk in the chancel, to which are chained old editions of Jewel's Works, Burnet's History of the Reformation, L'Estrange's edition of the Works of Josephus, Cave's Works, and other books. In Kerry church, Montgomeryshire, there is a copy of the Bible in Welsh, duly held by a chain; and at Llanfyllin, in the same county, is a chained copy of the "Whole Duty of Man." At Melton Mowbray, chained to a table in the church, are various books, including the Paraphrases of Erasmus, Jewel's Apology, three copies or Fox's Book of Martyrs, and other volumes. In Frampton Cotterell Church, Gloucestershire, there is a chained copy of Jewel's Apology, of the year 1568. In Wootton Wawen Church, Warwickshire, there are nine or ten chained books; and no less than fifty such in Turton Church, Lancashire. The popular notion that such books were always copies of the Scriptures will be seen from this to be erroneous. Before the Reformation it would seem that books of all sorts were chained in churches. Some of the books at Windsor appear from their titles to have been what we should call novels.

IN Berlin, a correspondent says, no day passes from October till April without at least three concerts or musical performances daily, exclusive of the opera. Berlin, too, is somewhat severe in its criticism, and artists of reputation value highly the recognition of the musical world of the German capital. This being so, the great success which the Vienna pianist, Herr Moritz Rosenthal, has scored there is the more remarkable. Herr Rosenthal, now a young man of about twenty-five, showed when a boy such talent that the late Franz Liszt who once heard him, took upon himself to teach him music for two years, and his prophecy that his pupil would one day wear the mantle of his master now seems approaching realisation. Such enthusiastic applause as that accorded to him at the concert in Berlin on Saturday, Jan. 16th, the correspondent says, he never heard. When Herr Rosenthal had played Liszt's difficult "Don Juan" fantasia a sort of frenzy seemed to sieze the audience, who could scarcely believe that it was only one man with ten fingers who was playing. The Berlin critics unanimously place Herr Rosenthal among the first of living pianists, and as regards his technique and execution, they declare him to be first of his time.

THE Sportsman newspaper has had a serious difficulty with its printers. The proprietors recently introduced several Thorn composing machines, and tried to arrange with the Compositor's Trades Union upon a scale of wages. The latter body was very exacting, and the two parties could not come to terms. The proprietors thereon decided to keep those Unionist compositors, who chose to remain, and gave the others a fortnight's notice. On the following night someone cut the driving straps, and threw beer and water on the delicate machinery. The proprietors paid every man a fortnight's wages and dismissed him. The Sportsman continues to be published as though nothing had happened. The dismissed compositors have held a meeting, to protest against the misconduct of one of their number whom they profess to be anxious to discover. Public sympathy is very much with the Sportsman. The days are gone past when machinery can be ignored. Hitherto, the various typographical societies have acted most fairly towards the introduction of methods of composing by machinery.

A ROYAL tomb, belonging to the XVIII. Dynasty, has been discovered in Egypt by M. Grebaut, at the village of Tel-el-Amarna on the right bank of the Nile, between Assiout and Minieh. It is that of Khou-en-Aten, a sovereign who, uneasy at the growing encroachments of the priests of Ammon on the political domain, moved the capital from Thebes, and tried to shake their power by setting up the worship of the sun at Tel-el-Amarna. On his death, however, Thebes again became the capital, and the priests of Ammon increased in power until they supplanted the royal house and founded the Twenty-first Dynasty. Up to now only the tombs of high court officials have been found in this place, and the discovery of the Royal sepulchre is likely to throw fresh light on the history of a reign about which little is known. The burial place is composed of a gallery about 54 yards in length, from which branch out two corridors, one straight, the other curved, ending in several sepulchral chambers, destined for the wife and daughter of the King. The chief gallery ends in a quadrangular room sustained by four pillars, and holding the Royal tomb. The sarcophagus is in pieces, but the inscriptions and reliefs are in a good state of preservation, although the colouring has disappeared.

BOMBAY VOLUNTEER RIFLES.

THE Bombay Volunteer Rifles paraded at the Town Hall at 5 p.m. on Saturday, the 13th instant, and after the usual preliminaries, marched via Church Gate Street to the Esplanade, on reaching which the companies front formed and closed to quarter column on the leading company. The Battalion then marched past in column, and wheeling by companies round the 3rd and 4th flags, formed line to the left opposite the saluting base. The line then prepared to receive cavalry from the right and reforming line, changed front to the left on No. 7 Company. The line then retired, and having halted and fronted, an advance was made in short echelon from the centre, followed by line on the two centre companies. A retirement was made in fours from the right of companies; and after halting in column, line was formed to the left, and two company and two half battalion volleys were fired and then one battalion volley. Quarter column having been formed by the left on No. 1, the Regiment was dismissed by the Adjutant.

S., acting Secretary to Government, Political Department, and Rao Bahadur Yeswant M. Kelkar, Oriental Translator to Government. Mr. Cowasjee Dadabhoy Rustomjee Banajee, Vice Persian Consul at Bombay, Mr. Devdant Dani and Sirdar Diler Jung were also present to see his Excellency off. His Excellency, after shaking hands with the gentlemen, present, entered his own saloon attached to the train which steamed out of the station at 9-30 Madras time.

THE OPERATIONS IN UPPER BURMA.

THE Khanhow Column returned to Camp Lenacot here at the 5th instant from the Torn Lorng country, having been out for fifteen days. They recovered several Burman captives, and brought back three of the most important of the Torn Lorng Chiefs as hostages, to be retained till the remainder of the captives, scattered through their villages, are given up. The course of the Manipur river has been followed and the whole country mapped. The men have kept very fit throughout. From here, Captain Stevens and Mr. B. S. Carey will go on the 7th, with a flying column of 100 men, to Manipur, to open up a direct trade route from Fort White and Tidim to Manipur.—Pioneer.

THE proposal to form a corps of Volunteer Engineers for Rangoon, to aid the Royal Engineers in operations for the defence of the river, is receiving unexpected vigorous support, and is likely shortly to take concrete form.

MR. GORDON BENNETT, proprietor of the New York Herald, continues to experience bitter disappointment with his journalistic ventures in England. Sometime ago he started a daily issue in London of his Herald, but after dropping £30,000 he ceased the project and fell back upon a Sunday edition only. This, too, has now expired. The only effect of these ventures has been to encourage the introduction of the American style of journalism on the English press, and the loss of many thousands of Mr. Bennett's fortune. Happily he can afford it, for his income is over a quarter of a million a year. Mr. Bennett has a summary method of dealing with writers. He had seventeen editors for the London Herald in less than twelve months. A short time ago he discharged one of his staff at a moment's notice without offering the slightest explanation. This summary proceeding has given rise to a law suit, and the jury have ordered Mr. Bennett to pay his assistant editor six months' salary.

THE "MERCHANT OF VENICE" AT THE NOVELTY.

A SPLENDID audience assembled at the Novelty Theatre, on Saturday evening, to witness the first performance of "The Merchant of Venice," by the Bombay Amateur Dramatic Club; and if constant demonstrations of approval, and numerous subsequent expressions of delight may be accepted as guaging correctly the general opinion, the work of the Club must be set down as eminently successful. Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Bart., the patron of the evening, was present with a large party of friends, and almost every influential Parsee family in Bombay was represented. Before expressing our opinion of the work performed by the individual actors, we may not inaptly call attention to the unique character of the entertainment. If William Shakespeare had been told when living that three centuries after his death, and in India, a company of Parsees—aliens to his language and literature—would have so far mastered the technique of English drama, as to give a highly creditable performance of one of his favourite comedies, he would probably have laughed in the face of the prophet. But this is precisely what occurred on Saturday night, and when one considers that to most of the performers, what may be termed the "Shakespearian atmosphere" is distinctly foreign, that a majority of them were novices on the stage, and none of them professionals—save, of course, Mr. Miln, and the two ladies—we do not hesitate to pronounce the performance one of the most distinct amateur successes ever achieved in this city. It was, indeed, an event altogether unique in character. Nor is the success less remarkable, because of the fact that a professional actor has been engaged in "coaching" the club. Only genuine enthusiasm, hard work, and sterling ability on the part of the actors themselves, could have produced so effective a result, no matter who the teacher. At the same time Mr. Miln is to be credited with having given a most careful and minute course of instruction, which we are sure was, in his case, a labour of love.

In conversation at the close of Saturday's performance, Mr. Miln said, with evident feeling: "In all my experience of the stage, I have never rehearsed a company of actors more sincere or willing, and, certainly, I have never been treated anywhere with more unvarying courtesy and amiability, than I have by the gentlemen concerned in this performance. I consider the performance highly successful, and I attribute its success to the earnestness and ability of the members of the A. D. C., who have taken part in it."

In passing to a more particular notice of the performance, we may dismiss with brief attention the three professional persons concerned in it. Mr. Miln's Shylock was animated with that lofty sense of national wrong, which characterizes the "Jew which Shakespeare drew." There was no petty malignity about it, but a deep-seated sense of racial oppression—the suffering of a people, to be "revenged" in every legitimate way. This conception was executed with perfect skill and evenness throughout, and secured for Mr. Miln the heartiest applause of the audience. Miss Kate Douglas gave a delightful representation of Portia. In the early scenes she was arch and womanly, and in the great trial scene, she rose to the height of tragic declamation in the foiling of the Jew. Her dresses were rich and appropriate, and as the young lawyer in cap and gown she was decidely "fetching." Miss Frances Ross had the difficult task of "doubling" the characters of Jessica and Nerissa, a task which she discharged to the satisfaction of everyone. As Jessica she was altogether charming in appearance and manner, and quite justified Lorenzo in his abduction. Miss Ross's dresses were very beautiful and aided very much to enhance the splendid tout ensemble. Running through the cast of amateurs, we come first to the Duke of Mr. C. D. Furdonjee, of which we can note that it was strong, sympathetic, and dignified; indeed Mr. Furdonjee was as much at ease as a professional actor, and delivered his lines with "good accent and good discretion," and in a deep rich voice which many a professional actor might very wisely covet. Mr. J. E. Davar, as Antonio, displayed both ease and grace, and at once revealed his familiarity with the stage. His conception of the part was correct. He was melancholy, not morose, sad, not misanthropic—and this conception he held to throughout. His delivery of the speech, commencing with "I pray you, think you, question with the Jew" was full of pathos and manly feeling. Mr. Davar's dress and make-up were beyond criticism, and reminded one strikingly of pictures of Mr. Kean's Iago. Mr. A. F. Unwalla, as Bassanio, was earnest and sufficiently romantic, to meet the wishes of the most exacting mistress; he spoke and acted with confidence and energy, and deserved the applause which he won in the "Casket scene." His brother Mr. K. F. Unwalla was cast as Solanio, a part which he filled admirably, especially in the great scene with Shylock at the beginning of the third act; indeed he, and Mr. A. N. Pleader (Salarino) divided the honors of this scene with Mr. Miln, whom they aided most materially. Mr. Pleader has a pleasant voice and manner, and acted throughout with ease and dignity. Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. D. E. Patell for his performance of the difficult light comedy role of Gratiano. He was full of fun from first to last, and scored immensely off the Jew in the court scene. Mr. J. D. Wadia played Launcelot Gobbo, and played it well. The manner in which he plunged into the difficulties and intricacies of this character, and his success in dealing with them deserve the highest praise. Mr. Wadia contributed very largely to the amusement of the evening by the zest with which he executed the various dolleries of his part, as did Mr. S. D. Billimoria, in the two characters of Old Gobbo and Tubal. Mr. Billimoria's performance of Old Gobbo was a most distinct success, he delineated the peculiarities of age and blindness with genuine artistic touch, and we shall look for Mr. Billimoria in future amateur performances with genuine interest. The cast was completed by Mr J. M. Colah, who played the small part of Balthasar, Portia's servant, so well as to make us wish to see more of him.

The play ran smoothly from start to finish, and the appointments and management of the stage indicated the presence of experience. The short comedietta, "A Pair of Lunatics," which preceded the comedy, was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, and served to put everyone in good humour. We have only congratulations, not criticism, to offer the A. C. D., on this its latest and most successful venture. To-morrow evening the second performance is to be given for the benefit of the Alexandra School for Girls. Mr. C. M. Cursetjee, a zealous friend and director of the school, has consented to play Shylock for its benefit. Besides enacting this arduous role, Mr. Cursetjee has worked very hard to make the performance successful, and his many friends in Bombay will be heartily glad to welcome him to-morrow evening at Shylock—a character as little like his own as the noon-tide glare is like the darkness of night.

Seats for future performances may be secured at Macropolo's.

MISS JANET ACHURCH IN BOMBAY.

THE programme for the first week Miss Janet Achurch is to play in Bombay is now announced. It is a pity that she and Mr. Charrington her husband, who accompanies and acts with her, cannot remain in Bombay beyond a week, both Novelty and Gaiety Theatres being engaged. Indeed it was with the utmost difficulty the Novelty was secured for six nights. However, she is to make the most of the short term she will appear by putting on fresh pieces every night. On Saturday, the opening night, "Forget-me-not" will be played. On Monday she will appear in the "Money Spinner," on Tuesday "Camille." For Wednesday a Shakespearian and old English comedy programme will be prepared. Thursday and Friday, the 25th and 26th February, will be respectively devoted to Ibsen dramas "A Doll's House" and "Hedda Gabler." Seats may now be booked at Messrs. Soundy and Company's.

THE Amir of Kabul is still absent from his capital. It appears that he left his country-house on the slopes of the Paghman Range and started for Kabul, where cholera was reported to have died out; but on the way he saw evidences that the epidemic had not altogether ceased, and retraced his steps. The winter, fortunately, has been mild so far in Afghanistan, so that his Highness has not suffered from the cold climate of the hills. When cholera has absolutely died out in the neighbourhood of Kabul as well as in the city itself, he will doubtless return to his comfortable palace below the Asmai heights.

A SERIES of suggestions received from the various officers of the volunteer crops in the Punjab to make the volunteer movement more popular in the province have been sent up by the Local Government to the Government of India for consideration. In these, several concessions have been recommended with regard to income-tax, passage to England, travelling on Indian railways, concessions in respect of the computation of service for pensions, the free education of children of volunteers in asylums, &c.

PRESENTATION OF ADDRESSES TO THE ARCHBISHOP OF BOMBAY.

A LARGE and representative gathering of the Catholic community of this city assembled in the rooms above the Fort Chapel, yesterday evening, to welcome his Lordship Dr. Theodore Dalhoff, S.J., the newly-created Archbishop of Bombay, to his new office, and express their feelings of congratulation and satisfaction which the selection has given them. The hall was beautifully decorated with a profuse display of flags, shrubs and bunting, and presented a picturesque appearance. Punctually at 4-30 p.m. his Grace entered the hall and the band of St. Mary's College, under the baton of Rev. Father Waldmann, struck up a march. When his Lordship took his seat with the Rev. Fathers Steins and Jerguens, S. J., seated on either side, Mr. Owens came forward and presented the following address on behalf of the parishioners of the Fort:—"May it please your Grace,—We, the members of the Fort Chapel congregation, approach your Grace to offer you our most sincere and hearty congratulations on your elevation to the Archepiscopal See of Bombay. It was in this parish your Grace commenced, more than twenty-six years ago, your mississionary career in India, and by a happy coincidence it was whilst Vicar of the Fort Chapel the charge of the Archdiocese devolved on you as Administrator-Apostolic. In common with the rest of your Grace's flock in the Archdiocese, we rejoice that our Holy Father Pope Leo XIII. has in his wisdom appointed as our Spiritual Ruler a Prelate whom we have long learned to love—who has endeared himself to us by his unvarying kindness and affability, and who has won universal esteem by the claims of his personal character and his many virtues. In paying to your Grace the tribute of our homage and respect it will not be out of place if, on an occasion such as this, we give public expression to the thanks we owe the illustrious Society of which your Grace is so distinguished a member. The history of the Church in the East since the days of St. Francis Xavier bears eloquent witness to the large part which the sons of St. Ignatius have had in the evangelization of this vast empire. In our own day the traditions of the past are nobly sustained by those devoted members of your Order who, at the voice of the Sovereign Pontiff, have left country and kindred to spend themselves, and be spent in the various mission fields entrusted to their care throughout the wide extent of India. But this Archdiocese in particular is under especial obligations to the Fathers of the Society of Jesus. We see everywhere around us evidences of their zeal, their entire devotedness to the welfare of the Catholic population of this Presidency. Since their introduction into Bombay more than thirty years ago they have laboured untiringly to promote the interests of the Church, and have by their self-sacrificing efforts raised the social, moral and religious condition of our Catholic community. In those labours your Grace has borne no inconspicuous part. In the various functions you have discharged—whether in the important posts you have filled in your own Society, or in the onerous and responsible work of the pastoral office, or as Administrator of the Archdiocese after the death of the much lamented most Rev. Dr. Porter, you have ever exhibited a bright example of those high qualities which are the especial ornament of the priestly character. For the past five years you have daily moved amongst us, and having been the witnesses of your eminent virtues it was with feelings of the liveliest satisfaction we received the welcome announcement that His Holiness had chosen you for our Archbishop. May those bonds of mutual affection which have united us in the past be still further strengthened in the future, and may it always be our endeavour to maintain and cultivate those relations of confidence and affection which should ever subsist between the flock and its chief pastor. We respectfully ask your Grace's acceptance of the accompanying gift which but poorly represents the wealth of love for your person and respectful regard for your high office which are cherished by the parishioners of the Fort Chapel. In conclusion, we wish you, in the language of the Church, "Ad multos annos," and beg for ourselves and our families your Grace's blessing and a remembrance in your prayers."

His Grace, in replying, expressed his heartfelt thanks for the address. The parishioners were kind enough to mention that he commenced his mission here in India some twenty-six years ago. His Lordship said he remembered well when he arrived here on the 28th of January, 1866. It was then Septuagessima Sunday, and so the 26th ecclesiastical anniversary of his Lordship was celebrated that day. (Applause.) The parishioners were also good enough to mention the personal qualities of his past services, and he thanked them for their kind remembrance. He had always been afraid of this high dignity, which it had pleased the Holy Father to place on his weak shoulders. And he need not tell them he had never envied such a dignity. Far from it. But he trusted in God, the parishioners would assist him, and he relied on the prayers of the congregation in his new office.

"May it please your Grace,—We, the undersigned, on behalf of the members of the Mount Carmel congregation of the third order of St. Francis of Assisi, beg to offer you our most cordial and hearty congratulations on your elevation to the Archiepiscopal See of Bombay, and earnestly pray that the Almighty may spare you for many years to come in the dignity of your high office. It was with feelings of the greatest joy that the members of this congregation received the announcement that his Holiness had selected to rule over us one who, from his long and distinguished career of over a quarter of a century in our midst, was eminently qualified to administer to the ever-increasing needs of this large and important charge. The cause of Catholic education has ever found in your Grace a staunch friend, and your work as Rector of St. Xavier's College in this city bore striking evidence to the practical nature of your advocacy of its interests. And it is with the deepest gratitude and affection that we refer to your Grace's connection as spiritual director with this congregation. Ever since its inauguration by your Grace on the 8th December, 1889, we have experienced the benefits of your fatherly guidance and assistance in maintaining the rules of our Holy Order, and we take this opportunity of expressing our grateful appreciation of the many kindnesses we have received at your hands. Your zeal and anxiety for the welfare and progress of our congregation well merit our heartiest tribute of affection on this joyous occasion. We venture to express a hope that your Grace will continue, as far as the many cares and duties of your exalted position will permit, to bestow on us the benefit of your patronage and the favour of your fatherly counsel and guidance. We beg your Grace's acceptance of a Breviary as a token of our affection and respect. We have selected this particular token, because we know that this book will be for the great part of the day in your Grace's hands, and we are thus sure to be all the more remembered by you in your prayers. Trusting your Grace will deign to accept the assurances of our filial love and obedience, we beg to subscribe ourselves.—Your Grace's most obedient children in St. Francis."

His Grace suitably acknowledged the address in a few appropriate words, and the Rev. Father Hoene then introduced two young ladies to the Archbishop who presented him with a couple of handsome altar cushions on behalf of the Ladies' Sodality. The Revd. Father remarked that as the ladies felt too bashful to present an address, he volunteered to say a few words for them.

His Grace, having acknowledged the token, an address was presented on behalf of the St. Anne's congregation, and the following on behalf of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul:—

"My Lord Archbishop,—We, the undersigned members of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, are assembled here to-day to offer your Grace our warmest congratulations on your elevation to the Archbishopric of Bombay. The Society of which we are members, and which has for its chief and fundamental object the sanctification of its members by the personal performance of works of charity, was, as your Grace is aware, introduced into Bombay, nay into India, in the year 1862, by his Grace Dr. Meurin. Under his fostering care and patronage it speedily grew and the fire of charity rapidly spread, so that at the present time the Society has its branches or Conferences scattered over the Bombay Presidency and even in parts of the Presidencies of Bengal and Madras. In this Presidency alone, according to the latest statistics, the Conferences within the circumscription of the Bombay Council reckon a staff of 365 effective members. After Archbishop Meurin's departure from Bombay, his Grace Dr. Porter did us the honor of accepting the office of Patron, but he after a very brief period of time was removed from us by death, deeply lamented and regretted by all, and for more than two years the Society has been without a Patron. It is now, therefore, our privilege to request Your Grace to honor us by accepting the patronage of our Society, over the general meetings of which you have often presided, first in the capacity of Vicar-General and subsequently of Administrator-Apostolic of this Archdiocese. In asking your Grace to deign to accede to this request of ours, we beg to assure you of our homage and attachment to your person, and of our readiness at all times to cooperate with your Grace, to the best of our power, in furthering any measures you may initiate for the relief of poverty and human misery. We conclude, my Lord Archbishop, by tendering to you the fullest expression of our love and esteem, and in congratulating you once more on the special honor conferred upon you by our present gloriously reigning Pontiff, Leo XIII., in raising you to the episcopal dignity. We crave your Grace's blessing upon our works, ourselves, families, and the poor committed to our care."

Mr. Ezechiel then read the following address on behalf of the Bombay Catholic Union:—

"May it please your Grace,—We, the members of the Council of the Bombay Catholic Union, beg to be allowed to express to Your Grace, on behalf of our Association, our joyous sentiments of congratulation at your auspicious elevation to the dignity of Archbishop of Bombay, and to lay at your feet the homage of our filial respect and obedience It will be the pleasing office of the various parishes of this Archdiocese to give separate expression to those feelings of affectionate welcome and loyalty with which dutiful Catholics are ever ready to greet the chief pastor placed over them by the Sovereign Pontiff. The address, however, which we have the honour of now presenting to your Grace possesses a character which may be said to represent the whole of your flock. For the aims and uses of the Bombay Catholic Union are not limited to parochial requirements, nor is its list of membership among Catholics restricted to any class. All the Catholics of the Presidency who owe allegiance to the Queen, whether they be of European or of Indian birth, possess in our organization a common ground for Catholic action and thus impart to it a distinctly representative feature such as becomes those who belong to "One Fold" and acknowledge but "One Shepherd." The faith which is our common patrimony welds us all together without distinction of race or degree. Our common purpose is, in conjuncton with the clergy, to uphold the rights of the Church and the spiritual independence of the Holy See. It is, therefore, with special reason and devotion that we come forward on this occasion to express the common sentiments of all the communities of British Catholics belonging to the Western Presidency of British India. For the Archdiocese of Bombay holds a suffragan authority that is conterminous with the Presidency and thus possesses a personal interest for every Catholic within its pale. This interest is heightened by those circumstances of embarrassment and annoyance which are so well known that they need not be further specified on this occesion, and which are the cause that this important See has been kept vacant for nearly two years and a half. The sentiments of the British Catholic of this Presidency have been already clearly expressed on this subject. Happily, the long delay is now ended by the welcome appointment of your Grace. For those acquainted with the ecclesiastical history of Bombay, other points of interest and other names of blessed memory will inevitably suggest themselves when a new Archbishop is set over us. Who will not recall the heroic and saintly Bishop Hartmann, the indomitable and accomplished Bishop Meurin, and him, too, so lately lost to us, whose name was a household word for energy and enterprise and priestly grace and wisdom in England before he came amongst us to carry out, amid circumstances of peculiar difficulty, the obligations of his great office till death too soon removed him, who was a type of devoted Christian obedience. The memory of Dr. Porter and of your Grace's revered predecessors, with the history of their sufferings, sets a seal of melancholy interest upon the See of Bombay which has probably no parallel among the dioceses of Christendom. It is, however, of happy omen and offers no small matter for rejoicing, that the prelate to whom the Holy Father has at length committed the pastoral charge of this Archdiocese is a clergyman already endeared and known to us all. The labours of 26 years amongst us in the schools and parishes long ago earned for Father Dalhoff the esteem and confidence and affection of the diocese. These sentiments have but deepened during your Grace's tenure of the important post of Administrator-Apostolic of this diocese during a period of over two years. In their new Archbishop the Catholic of Bombay recognize not only a guide and a pastor, but also a friend and a father. There is one circumstance above all in which we discern the sincerest matter for congratulation and which fills with signal gladness every Catholic heart. Your Grace belongs to the illustrious Order of the Society of Jesus. When we look about us in this city and see the vast day-schools like St. Xavier's filled to overflowing, the boarding-schools like St. Mary's, the orphanages, the girls' schools, the convents, the asylum for the lepers, for the foundlings, for deaf and dumb,—when we consider to whom all these splendid works of Christ-like beneficence owe their inspiration, their creation and their support; when we consider what a comparative handful of Catholics we are, and how little out of our poverty we are able to contribute, our souls are stirred with bewilderment and admiration at the immense works accomplished by the Father of the Society with so little help, and against such vast difficulties. Our feelings are ontensified when we remember the special difficulties against which our priests have had to struggle in this Presidency. It is sad that the old calumnies should still be heard outside the Church against the devoted Fathers of the Society. It is sadder still that such calumnies should ever find an echo in the mouths of those who owe their education and their very position to the devoted zeal of Jesuit priests. What wonder that the accession of a Jesuit to the government of a See, whose good works owe everything to Jesuit enterprise and Jesuit sacrifices, should be greeted with such welcome and rejoicing as no other prelate, called in from stranger sources, however saintly and able, could be expected to evoke. In offering with the deepest respect, our congratulations and loyal obedience to one, who though an Archbishop, remains a Jesuit always, we desire to emphasize our earnest appreciation of the noble labour of the Fathers of the Society of Jesus in our midst. It will, we trust, be some compensation for them to know that British Catholics at any rate, European and Native born, harbour towards the Society no feelings but of those of an abiding reverence and admiration and a most grateful love. With every sentiment of affectionate fealty and obedience towards your Grace, and asking your blessing on the Bombay Catholic Union, whose deputies we are to-day, and whose unanimous devotion we bespeak towards you."

His Grace having briefly replied, the proc terminated.

AFGHAN AND TRANS-FRONTIER NEWS.

THE Allahabad paper still discredits the assertion that has been freely made by transfrontier correspondents that the Afghan General Gholam Haider purposes to attack Umra Khan; but one of the reasons given—namely that Asmar, which is Gholam Haider's first objective, is too far north for an attack upon Bajaur—would have more force if it was not actually in Asmar that the first attack against Umra Khan is to be delivered. The movement of Afghan troops is not for the purposes of immediately invading Bajaur, but of ousting Umra Khan's party from Asmar, whence they some time ago caused the expulsion of the youthful Khan, whose sister is betrothed to the Amir's son. The restoration of the status quo ante Umra Khan may be bloodlessly effected, if that Chief does not feel himself strong enough to resist at Asmar; and if so the other expectations of the Pioneer—namely, that the Kafirs are likely to be attacked, and that Gholam Haider is really acting the bogey man in that part of the Afghan frontier—are probably correct: because our transfrontier correspondents have previously stated that, after Umra Khan's party has been driven from Asmar, an expedition against the Siaposh Kafirs will precede an invasion of Bajaur, and that General Gholam Haider has been going to and fro "making arrangements" with the various villages, doubtless in bogey man fashion.

The Amir's treasurer from Jellalabad who, as already announced, arrived at Peshawar on the 17th ultimo to examine the accounts of the Amir's wood-agents, left on the 1st instant to submit the checked accounts to the Amir. Everything was found to be correct, according to our correspondent.

At the end of January Nur Ahmed Khan of "Darai Nyazyan," an independent territory near Jellalabad, left to obey a summons from Gholam Haider, who was still in command at Chugh Serai (Chigar Serai in our maps). Nur Ahmed Khan is a Shinwari Chief with a large local following, who has always been well disposed towards the Amir; and the Afghan commander wants his assistance in the arrangements for his Bajaur campaign.

Another fraudulent Afghan contractor has been forced to flee. Shad Muhammad Khan, Malik of Peshbolak, had an "ajara" contract for land from the Amir, for which he was to pay Rs. 13,000 per annum. He had somehow defrauded the Amir of a portion of this amount, and being suspected was summoned to Kabul. Instead of obeying, he has fled with his family into the Shinwari country near Jellalabad. His immoveable property has been confiscated by the Amir.—Civil and Military Gazette.

WESLEYAN METHODISM AT BYCULLA

A SOCIAL meeting, which was fairly well attended, was held

ECHOES OF SCIENCE.

THE telegram to the effect that Edison is working at a new invention for enabling soldiers in a fort to destroy an attacking force by a jet of electrified water is very brief; but it is possible to divine the underlying method. If we suppose the water to be contained in an insulated reservoir, and connected to one pole of the dynamo, or source of electricity, while the other pole is connected to the ground, it follows that if the enemy in marching over the ground be struck by a continuous jet of the electrified water, the circuit will be completed and they will receive a shock which may be rendered fatal. If, however, the enemy wore suits of copper armour or even drenched their clothes with water before making the attack, it is difficult to see what harm Edison's jet would do, since the electricity would probably pass through their clothing to the ground. In any case the idea is not exactly novel. We read in the classics that fishermen of the Mediterranean sometimes got a shock from a living torpedo in their nets while dashing water from a wet bucket over the fish.

M. Moissan, who is now investigating the various properties of gaseous fluorine, that most virulent and destructive of known substances, which might almost be called the "alkahest" or universal solvent of the medieval alchemists, has found that it may be kept for days in vessels of platinum, provided certain precautions are taken to remove the last trace of hydrofluoric acid vapour from the gas. Moreover, even at a temperature of 100 deg. C. the gas does not affect a spiral of platinum immersed in it. Corrosion begins, however, when the temperature be over 400 deg. C. If the platinum is heated to a low redness the action is rapid. M. Moissan finds that the colour of fluorine is a paler yellow than that of chlorine.

It has been proved by Professor T. J. Parker that the wingless bird known as the apteryx, is descended from birds that were able to fly, and hence it has been supposed that other win less birds, such as the great Moa bird of New Zealand, had also flying ancestors. Professor H. O. Forbes, of the Canterbury Museum, Christchurch, New Zealand, has recently found a confirmation of this supposition in a scapulo-coracoid bone of the Dinornis. A fine specimen of this bone has been dug out of a peat bed near Oamaru, in the South Island, and it shows a holl w or glenoid cavity adapted for a humerus bone, that is to say, the trace of a lost wing.

The National Zoological Park of the United States, which has been placed by Congress under the charge of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, United States, is intended to preserve those American animals which are nearly extinct in circumstances like those of their native haunts. The development of the park proceeds steadily, notwithstanding a lack of funds. During the past year trees have been planted, and caverns blasted in the rock as dens for bears, while bathing pools, fed by a spring outside the grounds, have been constructed. The result is a healthy home for the animals and a pleasant resort for the people. The Americans are wise to keep this zoological garden as near to nature as possible.

The last report of the Smithsonian Institution contains some remarks which illustrate the value of ethnological studies from a political point of view. The Bureau of Ethnology is charged with the task of recording and classifying the languages, mythology, and religious practices of the Red Indians. Special attention has recently been given to the "ghost dances" and "Messiah craze," which caused the last Indian war, and the Bureau has reported that "official misconception" of the religious philosophy of the Indians, "which has been forcibly transfigured by the absorption of Christianity so as to present more apparent than actual antagonism to civilisation," has occasioned needless loss of life and treasure. As a matter of fact, the religious and inner life of primitive races has been grossly misunderstood in the past by passing travellers ignorant of their language, or not taking the trouble to make a patient and thorough scientific study of them.

The Navojo or Moqui blanket, which, as we lately observed, has a certain resemblence to the old Welsh blanket in its texture, is fully described in a paper just published by the Smithsonian Institution. There are no curves in the patterns, which are composed of horizontal stripes, diagonals, and lozenges in endless variety of detail. The colours are chiefly red, orange, blue, green, and black, white, or grey.

In the workshops of M. Domange-Scellos, Boulevard Voltaire, Paris, may now be seen a belt—the largest ever made—which is intended to transmit 1,000 horse-power. It is composed of a large number of leather straps, tied together by cords, and is 37 metres long, 2·10 metres broad, 0·02 metres thick, and weighs 1,400 kilogrammes. It can support a tensile stress of 75,000 kilogrammes. The belt goes to M. Cosserat, the great manufacturer of Amiens.

The department of the Var, in Provence, is in a geological sense, one of the most interesting in the South of France. The gorges of Olioules, between Marseilles and Toulon and the sand rocks of Evenos, are especially interesting and picturesque. These pure silicious sandstones, which are quarried for use, are, it now appears, the vestiges of an ancient sea-beach of the cretaceous epoch.

The council of the Royal Geographical Society have determined to give occasional courses of lectures on geography in connection with the society. Mr. H. J. Mackinder, Reader in Geography at Oxford, will deliver the first, either in the spring or next autumn.

A telegram from Australia has announced the withdrawal of Mr. David Lindsay from the command of the great Australian Expedition into the interior. The explorers started to investigate the tract between the route of Forrest in 1874 and of Giles's in 1875; but on arriving at Queen Victoria Springs on Giles's route, they found it nearly dry, and had to give up all hopes of thoroughly exploring the region at this time. Although straitened for water the party reached the cattle stations near Esperance Bay on the South Coast with the loss of only two camels. Mr. Lindsay states that although the region between Mount Squires and the Springs is arid, it is not exactly a desert, being clothed with bushes here and there, and even supporting a forest of gum-trees. The natives obtain their supply of water by draining the roots of certain mallee trees best known to themselves.

The City of Lima in Peru has now a geographical society, and a paper was recently read before it on the curious phenomenon of the "Pintor "or Painter in the Bay of Callao. During the summer months from December to April, emanations of sulphuretted hydrogen gas are observed there, and the colour of the sea-water changes. At various other points on the coast, from Payta to Pisco (5deg. to 13 deg. S. latitude) the phenomenon is observed; and it is found that the gas rises from a black mud on the bottom. The redness imparted to the sea water is traced to infusoria. According to Senor Raimondi, the waters of the River Rimac do not freely escape from the Bay of Callao owing to the Humboldt current crossing its mouth; hence the solid matter in suspension collects in the bay, and is decomposed by the heat of the sun. Where there is no river or cross-current on the coast there is no "Painter." The name comes from the fact that the sulphuretted gas blackens white paint.

We recently reported a curious case of a spider completing the circuit of an electric bell and making it ring; and now a somewhat similar account comes to us from New York. In the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company there, about a month ago, the quadruplex telegraph between New York and Baltimore broke down, but on testing the wires they were found to be all right. The "trouble" was eventually traced to a "croton bug" connecting the positive and negative wires in the apparatus, and so shunting the current through its body. The insect was dead, having been killed by the current, and partially burned. It is rather singular that the technical slang for "trouble" on a telegraph circuit in America is "a bug."

The fine description of a tempest which opens the first book of the Æneid has been much admired; but some commentators have declared it to be inexact, and found words in it which they could not understand. M. Gramaud, a French meteorologist, has, however, investigated the published accounts of late whirlwinds and cyclones, and the result is to fully justify the accuracy of Virgil who it seems, was not only a poet but like our own Tennyson well versed in the physical science of his time. He had definite ideas on meteorology and expressed them in poetic language. Vice Admiral Vignes, president of the Society of Geography, Paris, to whom M. Gremaud submitted his proofs has been surprised to find in Virgil the rules of cyclones which our sailors have learned in relatively modern times.

In the "Ancient Mariner" there is a line describing the crescent moon with a star on the inside of its rim which has puzzled some readers inasmuch as the dark body of the moon fills up the crescent. Nevertheless it has recently been pointed out that on some clear evenings when the moon is in her first quarter a bright spot resembling a small star or planet may be seen on the shadowed disc at a considerable distance from the glowing crescent. It is probably due to some high range or peak on the moon's surface reflecting the solar light.

Dear, Sirs,—Th rough the merits of your excellent Clarke's Blood Mixture the large red pimples which covered my face are fast disappearing. For a long time I put up with the discomfort of these pimples thinking that nothing would do any good. At last I was persuaded to try your medicine, and now I have taken one bottle they are rapidly vanishing. It cannot be too highly recommended, and I am most grateful. I will tell all my friends about it, but they really do not require telling because they can see the difference for themselves. You may publish this if needful.—I am, gratefully yours,

« This preparation of value is founded upon sound chemical and physiological principles. While pepsine is the natural solvent or digestive for nitrogenous aliments, it has little or no effect upon the feculent constituents which enter so largely into the composition of the food of man; and there is no doubt that some of the disorders of digestion arise from themal assimilation of the starchy elements. Now the proper digestive for these is diastase; and in the bi-digestive wine, of M. Chassaing, those two most important principles, pepsine and diastase, are combined in suitable proportions. » — See THE LANCET, July 27 th. 1872.
